Be Who You Want To Be

By Dr. Pete Campos

The first week of the fall semester has been very busy. Students are getting used to their classes, faculty and staff are committed to prepare for and meet students educational needs, and we are all looking forward to a great semester! We've taken charge of our destiny and it's a good one. We're at a place and time where we really value the importance of quality in our lives. Everything happens for a reason and they happen when they are meant to.

Who are we to judge what another person wants in their life? What really matters is that we are at peace and content with where we are in our lives. Being at Luna Community College regardless who we are means we are at the right place, at the right time, for the right reason. Whether you are a student or employee, let's continue to learn from each other and build lifelong relationships that will add meaning to our lives. When we support each other, we can reach our goals!

This is our chosen environment, together let's make the best of it! When the seeds of who we are and what we want out of life are planted they must be watered and nurtured. Who we are and what we will become takes time to become well rooted, to sprout, to grow and eventually mature into the persons we want to be.

Regardless of which stage in your life you are at right now, it is never too late to pursue and live your dream. It may be difficult, but embrace the struggles knowing that with time, patience, and consistent persistence, you will eventually reap and enjoy the fruits of your labor. Will Rogers said, "If you want to be successful, it's just this simple. Know what you are doing. Love what you are doing. And, believe in what you are doing."

Wishing you the best at Luna Community College!
