After losing two games to Adams State Junior Varsity in Alamosa last Friday, the Luna Community College softball team returned home on Sunday and split with Western Nebraska losing 11-3 and winning 8-2.

The Lady Rough Riders lost to Adams State Junior Varsity 3-1 and 5-1.

"Playing Adams State was a good experience for us," said LCC Interim Head Coach Nathan Trujillo. "We had trouble hitting against their pitchers. It was good for our team to see that type of atmosphere."

A scheduled doubleheader with North Platte College was cancelled on Saturday.

Renee Roybal took the win for LCC on Sunday.

LCC will play Clarendon College on Friday on Saturday on the road with a scheduled double header each day.

"We're excited to play in conference again; we're ready for the challenge," said Trujillo.

The LCC baseball team split four games with Clarendon at home on Friday and Saturday. After losing the first game on Friday 5-3, the Rough Riders bounced back to win the second 7-6.

Student retention...whose job is it?

By Vidal Martinez
Vice-President for Instruction

At the previous Lead Advisory Team (LAT) meeting, a discussion occurred about retention and who is ultimately responsible for it. The discussion revolved around strategies to support LCC students, how to retain students in the classroom, e-mail communication with students, and student persistence from one semester to another. Overall, retention is everyone's responsibility and the goal is to help all students become successful in their educational endeavors.

The following are excerpts from retention reports used by advocates of higher learning.

"The more academically and socially involved students are on campus, the more likely they will be to persist with their college studies." – <http://www.nvcc.edu/oir/reports/sturentent.htm>

"Support tutoring and supplemental instruction. Focus on classes that are difficult and provide the additional instruction necessary for students to master the difficult material." – <http://www.cfder.org>

"Provide students with lively, substantive learning for personal growth." – <http://www.ccbcmd.edu/media/adjunct/retention.pdf>

"To understand student retention issues in community colleges, it is necessary to identify the retention goal of the institution, the criteria, definitions, and data needed to monitor progress toward the retention goal." – http://www.cfder.org/uploads/3/0/4/9/3049955/rethinking_student_retention_in_community_colleges.pdf

"All students are members of one or more cultural groups. If students experience a college culture very different from their own, they will have difficulty becoming connected." – <http://www.oakton.edu/user/1/lsaret/LauraSaretOaktonWebSite/Ways%20Faculty%20Can%20Encourage%20Student%20Retention.htm>

"According to a 2010 survey of Chief Academic Officers at community colleges across the nation, issues with academic preparation, job and family responsibilities, finances, or personal motivation were perceived to be among the most significant reasons why students leave community colleges." – http://www.gulfcoast.edu/institutional_effectiveness/data_reports/research_papers/Community%20College%20Retention%20and%20Recruitment%20of%20At-Risk%20Students.pdf

"Successful retention programs encompass virtually everything an institution does to improve the quality of student life and learning." – <http://watc.edu/wp-content/uploads/2012/05/Faculty-Role-in-Retention.pdf>

Top 10 reasons for completing community college

- 1) You'll earn more! Students who complete their associate degree or certificate can expect to earn as much as $8,000 more per year and about $400,000 more in a lifetime than a high school graduate. 1
- 2) You'll be prepared! People change jobs up to 10 times in their working lives – and when you are job-hunting, a college credential will always give you an edge. 2
- 3) Credential holders also are more likely to retain jobs. Unemployment for community college graduates is typically 30 percent lower than for high school grads. 3
- 4) You'll encounter fewer barriers to transfer! Many state college systems have articulation agreements that guarantee transfer of community college credits when associate degree students enter state universities. You'll save time and money by not having to repeat courses or take courses you did not know you needed. 4
- 5) You'll have the personal satisfaction of reaching your educational goal and having something tangible to show for it – something valued by employers, scholarship officials and transfer recruiters.
- 6) You'll help reverse a national trend in the declining number of college graduates, and you'll also open doors for your children. Children of college graduates are more likely to graduate themselves. 5
- 7) You and your family's health will improve. Research links greater educational attainment to longer life, healthful eating, exercising and avoiding risk factors. Better-educated people are quicker to change behaviors in response to new evidence. Better educated people have higher incomes, making them more likely to have health insurance and live in safer neighborhoods with better access to recreational facilities and grocery stores.6
- 8) You will be more likely to promote environmental sustainability. 5
- 9) You'll be more likely to volunteer, vote, contribute to charity, serve on boards and run for office. 5
- 10) You'll be an educated, prepared and higher-paid employee, providing support for federal, state and local governments and helping the national workforce be competitive and productive in the global economy. 5
