Education Department to offer new courses for LCC faculty

By Debbie Trujillo
LCC Education Director

The Department of Education will be offering two new exciting online courses in the fall to address issues in teaching at the community college level. These courses are designed to help instructors hone their skills in the integration of instructional technologies, differentiating instruction, utilizing student assessment to drive instruction, and many other topics relevant to teaching in the community college.

These courses are focused on the effective design and implementation of quality instruction, instructional technologies, and other instruction such as peer-based collaboration and active learning strategies.

These courses will provide participants with a foundation of instructional theories, skills, and practices to support existing professional development efforts in the community college. Courses provide cost-effective professional development that is accessible to both full-time and adjunct faculty.

Nursing department offering critical thinking and problem solving course

The Luna Community College Nursing Department wants to inform everyone that they are offering a three credit hour course HD269 Critical Thinking and Problem Solving that students of all disciplines can benefit from. Please advise students of this learning opportunity. For more information, call 505/454-2527.

Portillos says that more meetings between academic and student services are necessary

Name: Louise Portillos

Position: Director – Springer Site

How many years at LCC (what year did you start)? As coordinator, 7.5 yrs (01/02) Previously, I had worked for LCC for 12 yrs (07/82 – 04/94) as an office manager.

Favorite food and why? Brisket. Because it tastes so good!

Favorite hobby and why? Fishing and camping. Because I love the outdoors and I get to see God's beautiful creations. There is no better escape! Plus my golden retrievers love it.

Favorite TV show and why? Grey's Anatomy. You watch it one time and you are hooked. There's always something happening!

Where would you like to see yourself five years from now? Almost RETIRED and still healthy so I can prepare to really enjoy life...like travel!

What do you like best about LCC? My co-workers and the students!

What do you like least about LCC and what would you offer as a solution? Definitely, the lack of communication, especially since we are many miles from the main campus. # Student Success

It hinges upon our full-fledged commitment, full-force implementation and microscopic daily analysis of our strategic master plan

By Dr. Pete Campos
LCC President

Our supercharged efforts to effectively deliver what students have asked for and truly need to succeed in life have already reaped many benefits. Student success is at the core of our purpose and achievements!

We reached this peak through thoughtful and strategic planning, daily monitoring and realignment of our educational direction, developing and maintaining individualistic student pathways, welcoming every student and their parents or guardians as if they were a part of our own families, and truly putting every student first.

In an article entitled The Tenuous Link Between Formal Strategic Planning and Financial Performance by John A. Pearce, II, Elizabeth B. Freeman, and Richard B. Robinson, Jr. it is emphasized; when the term formal strategic planning is used, the intent is to convey that a firm's strategic planning process involves explicit systemic procedures used to gain the involvement and commitment of those principal stakeholders affected by the plan. This and other research validates the fact that Luna Community College is advancing at the request, validation and need of its stakeholders, whom are students.

We already had our chance as full-time students, now we have undertaken the role of provider, put our selfishness aside, and are being compensated through taxpayer dollars to deliver priceless educational and support services to students. Lewis Carroll, 1872, laid out a self-explanatory and profound methodology in, Through the Looking-Glass. A brief excerpt between Alice and the Cat speaks volumes. It is as follows. Alice: Which way should I go? Cat: That depends on where you are going. Alice: I don't know where I'm going! Cat: Then it doesn't matter which way you go! Luna Community College family members have chosen to wholeheartedly assist students discover and follow a distinct pathway that leads them to fulfill their aspirations in life and ultimate employment goals. The LCC family strives to help every student realize that it does matter which way they go!

Through our strategic planning, we as the developers and guides, have intently listened to students and community members, envisioned a promising future and developed the necessary operations and procedures to achieve that future. This vision and passionate commitment of the future state of our community college provides both a bold direction in which the organization should move and the energy to maintain that move.

This envisioning process is very different from long-range planning. Usually, long-range planning is referred to as the extrapolation of current trends. Envisioning is more than an attempt to anticipate the future and prepare accordingly. It involves a belief that aspects of the future can be influenced and changed by what we do now. We are not just planning the future; we are creating it!

Luna Community College President Dr. Pete Campos talks to David Martinez who is the media relations director for the upcoming Holly Holm Fight. Holly Holm, Frankie Archuleta, Arturo Crespin and Amanda Crespin are all scheduled to speak at Luna at noon on Wednesday, Aug. 26.

Volunteering can affect and change your life and others for the better

By Henry Sanchez

A very wise philosopher once said, "Life should be lived in three stages."

The first stage is our childhood and educational phase of our life, preparing us for our careers and occupations.

The second stage is living our careers and family-raising phase of our lives.

The third stage, if we are fortunate enough to reach it, is retirement and giving back phase of our lives. This is the stage of our lives we will concern ourselves with in this article.

I am always confused to hear people in retirement say they are bored and have nothing to do. Since we are creatures of habit and have lived many years working with routines and feelings of being needed, it is important to have things to do.

I believe that many people in retirement become addicted to the casino way of life, because they find what they need there, even if it becomes destructive and detrimental to their finances. It is understood that many do not want to return to full-time jobs with regular hours and the pressures that go with it. A possible solution to this dilemma is to give your time to a worthwhile organization, project or cause that will give you a fuller and richer life.

There are needs for volunteers in health, social services agencies, schools, recreation, libraries, museums, foster grandparents, senior programs and churches, to name a few. We must remember there are so many worth-while programs and organizations that need 'OUR' help, especially people with time interests or special talents to give.

Here are some benefits to volunteering:

1. It enriches and gives a person a fuller and richer life.
2. It gives more reason and purpose to life.
3. You are needed and appreciated.
4. With money being tight in our economy, volunteers may help a program from being dropped.
5. It enables programs to operate on a full basis and do more.
6. It helps you stay healthy and wise.
7. You are giving back and accomplishing great deeds.
8. You become a role model to people and youngsters that need you.

If you are interested in volunteering, call or go see the organizations you are interested in and ask them if you can help, or to refer you where help is needed. You will find more meaning to your life and the good you will do is immeasurable.

Parent impressed with Luna Community College

This week, my son and I went to Luna Community College to check into the possibilities of him taking classes as part of the Dual Credit/Concurrent Enrollment program. I was very impressed by the dedication, positive attitude and genuine guidance Melissa Lopez provided us and many others. I observed Ms. Lopez to be attentive, encouraging, and competent and focused on each student's situation.

My husband had told me that Luna personnel would provide solid guidance, but I had no idea how extensive advisement and direct professional services would be concerning admission, testing, guidance and collaboration between LCC, my son and in our case, Las Vegas City Schools.

I remain grateful to Patricia Romero, Janice Encinias and Melissa Lopez for going the extra mile and providing help to "all" students and noticeably those who were assisted while I waited for my son during his scheduled advisement and testing period.

Ms. Romero, Ms. Encinias and Ms. Lopez made me and others feel right at home while we either waited for our children to be tested and placed in appropriate classes or were waiting their turn to go through the admissions process. These professionals are truly living the Luna Community College mission focused on student success. I believe these individuals are providing hope and opportunity to students.

Sincerely,
 Lori Anne Campos
