LCC Foundation donates $600 to LCC SkillsUSA

On behalf of Luna Community College Skill-USA students and advisors, we would like to thank LCC Foundation Executive Director Sarah Flores and LCC Foundation members for donating $600 that will go to registration fees for the state competition next week in Albuquerque.

As many of you know, we are taking one of the largest groups in recent years to participate in this event and this money will go a long way as our students represent Luna Community College.

this week.

Wagon Mound students participate in Luna Community College's Dual Credit Program. This junior class successfully completed Spanish I and are now enrolled and succeeding in Spanish II at the Wagon Mound High School campus. Luna Community College has had a presence in Wagon Mound High School for several years. Dual credit courses offered at the high school enable students to meet the state graduation requirements. Pictured are: Mr. Nick Trujillo, Marina Trujillo, Jamie Conway, Diana Aguilar, Justice Ruiz, Gloryann Chavez, and Mrs. Georgia Cruz.

Wagon Mound Schools Superintendent Albert Martinez (left) talks with Luna Community College President Dr. Pete Campos on Monday, March 25. The two discussed issues on dual credit, online classes and the future of small school districts. Martinez says that he has several former students who want to take online classes in the evening.

LCC Small Business Development Center news

Workshops aim to teach principles of lean manufacturing

Michael Tso was 10 months into his job running a high-tech envelope-making machine at Desert Paper and Envelope in Albuquerque when his employer sent him to the New Mexico Manufacturing Extension Partnership's lean-manufacturing workshop this summer. There with other representatives of New Mexico companies he learned fundamentals of the lean manufacturing philosophy, which aims to improve business operations – and enhance competitiveness – from the shop floor to the front office. Desert Paper and Envelope has eight machines that perform eight different functions, said Tso, who is one of only two Desert Paper machine operators that operate one of those specialty machines. While the 35-year-old company already has a smoothly functioning production line, Tso said he learned how to be “more productive and efficient without the extra steps you don't need to take. I enjoyed the workshop and I learned a lot.”

Lean Way of Thinking

The core of the lean manufacturing management philosophy is the idea that any resources not creating value for a customer in the form of a product or service are wasted. While the Toyota Production System (TPS) is a relatively modern example of lean management, improving efficiency in the production of goods and services is a centuries-old idea.

Based on the premise that a lean operation is a profitable operation, New Mexico MEP — part of a nationwide network of nonprofit centers coordinated by the Commerce Department's National Institute of Standards and Technology — helps managers and essential workers at New Mexico companies understand the principles of lean manufacturing through workshops, on-site training and systems analyses.

New Mexico MEP serves businesses throughout the state from its offices in Albuquerque, Roswell, Farmington and Las Cruces. Supported by federal, state and private funds, MEP provides experts in government, nonprofit organizations and industry who can help small and medium-sized companies become more competitive by showing how they can improve production processes, apply advanced technology and train workers to operate more efficiently.

Principles of Lean Manufacturing Workshops

MEP offers both public and private training sessions on the principles of lean manufacturing. The curriculum approaches training by simulating real-world situations, with MEP experts guiding participants through the transition from a traditional to a lean manufacturing environment, eliminating waste and increasing productivity in the process.

MEP principles are often applied to manufacturing industries, but the organization also teaches a workshop designed to eliminate unnecessary paperwork and procedures in offices and administrative settings. Besides efficiency training, New Mexico MEP conducts classes that teach supervisors how to relate to employees, including how to motivate them, resolve conflicts, reduce accidents, decrease equipment damage and increase product quality and quantity. Businesses can also use the Partnership for Success program, a free Internet-based library and email subscription service that provides technical background and business information.

MEP workshops would be in collaboration with the LCC Small Business Development Center. If you are interested in the workshops or want more information on NM MEP please give the SBDC a call at (505) 454-2582 or (800) 588-7232 or email Theresa Romero at theromero@luna.edu.

Luna Community College joins Western Junior College Athletic Conference, Region 5 and Division I

“We are proud to have Luna Community College as part of our conference,” said Western Junior College Athletic Conference Commissioner John Green. “Luna has done very well in its first year and has been a huge asset both on and off the field. Luna’s administration has stepped in and been very active since they have joined our league.”

Lady Rough Riders score 29 runs in one game

LCC’s Keri Mays has 10 RBI in one game

Having one of the best offensive outputs in the history of the program, the Luna Community College softball team took three of four games at home from Frank Phillips college over the weekend. They won 29-4, 7-2, 5-0 and lost 9-8.

“We ended up with 25 hits; everyone on that day was producing,” said LCC Interim

Head Coach Nathan Trujillo of his teams 29 - run game.

Keri Mays went 5 for 5 with three home runs and 10 RBI in the 29-run game. Celeste Paez added a grand slam.

The Rough Rider baseball team lost three of four games to Frank Phillips College on the road. Frank Phillips took game one, three and four, 6-1, 4-2 and 13-5. LCC won the second game 7-3.

The softball team plays at Otero on Tuesday and hosts Odessa College on Friday and Saturday. A 1 p.m. start is scheduled for Friday, while an 11 a.m. start is scheduled for Saturday.

The baseball team travels to Hobbs on Friday and Saturday to take on New Mexico Junior College. A noon start is scheduled for both games.

LCC PTK student, advisors attending international convention

Luna Community College student Rachel Ridgeway along with Luna Community College Phi Theta Kappa Advisors Dr. Twila Quintana and Cindy Armijo are attending the Phi Theta Kappa International Convention in San Jose, Calif. this week.

They will represent New Mexico, the Beta Mu Nu Chapter and Luna Community College as they engage in professional development and compete in the Society’s Hallmark Awards in both the College Project and Honors in Action Project categories.

Ridgeway will also receive recognition as a Silver Scholar on stage during the Fourth General Session. She has also been invited to a Friday night reception in honor of all the Coca-Cola Scholars.
